The U.S.-China Policy Foundation is an 501(c)3 non-profit organization. Our location in the U.S. capital gives us unique access to government officials, policymakers, and thought leaders, giving us added ability to pursue our mission to build bridges and promote mutual understanding between the U.S. and China through people-to-people diplomacy, education, engagement, cultural exchanges, and business dialogue. Your support will fund a variety of programs and projects, including:

- Educational delegations to China for the senior staff of U.S. Senators and Congress Members (link), track II military delegations (link), and business delegations allowing American companies to meet with Chinese officials and Chinese companies.
- Fall, Spring, and Summer internship programs training young students to become future leaders and policymakers in U.S.-China relations. Each year, we receive many more applicants than we have the capacity for. We hope that with additional funding we can further expand our internship program.
- Public panels and discussions on current topics related to U.S.-China relations. (link)
- Dialogues and exchanges between U.S. and Chinese officials, scholars, and business leaders. USCPF also helps welcome Chinese leaders when they visit the U.S., including President Xi Jinping. (link)
- Various publications including The Washington Journal of Modern China (link), the China Forum television program (link), and a variety of books and reports written by our Board Members.
- Cultural events, including art exhibits, film screenings, and displays of historical photos. (link)

The U.S.-China Policy Foundation is the only non-profit organization in the U.S. capital solely dedicated to promoting and improving U.S.-China relations. When Chinese President Xi Jinping visited Seattle in 2015, he paid tribute to the work of organizations striving to foster better U.S.-China relations and highlighted their importance for the future of bilateral ties, even mentioning the U.S.-China Policy Foundation by name. Our efforts to improve this vital yet complicated relationship, however, cannot continue without support.

This year has been an important year for China's increased presence on the global stage. China continues to pursue multilateral infrastructure and trade projects through its ambitious Belt and Road Initiative. President Xi Jinping also reinvigorated China's relationship with North Korean leader Kim Jong-un ahead of the historic U.S.-North Korea summit. As China increases its role in the international community, it is important to strengthen America's understanding of China, its policies, and its priorities. In light of current U.S.-China tensions it is increasingly necessary to encourage mutual understanding and engagement.
